RICHARD CYRIL LOCKETT

FOREWORD

Richard Cyril Lockett was born in 1873 and died May 23rd, 1950. He started collecting seriously about 1906 and confined himself for many years to the English, Scottish and Irish series from Ancient British down to Edward VII. In 1927 he decided to sell his milled English coins from Charles II to Edward VII.

After leaving Liverpool and coming to London he spent many hours of most days with his coin collection. He never tired of seeing coins and talking of numismatics to his many friends, and he was always happy to show his collection to other collectors.

He purchased at most of the auction sales at which collections of coins were dispersed, especially at the important sales such as Rashleigh, Roth, Carlyon-Britton, Walters, Watters, Bruun, Huth, Hamilton-Smith, Colonel Morrieson, and Lord Grantley.

This catalogue contains Ancient British, Romano-British, and a portion of the Saxon, Norman and English coins to Edward II; the next English sale will contain English coins from Edward III to Edward VI, and will be sold in 1956.

The second catalogue will be of the first portion of his magnificent Ancient Greek series which are so well illustrated in Sylloge Numorum Graecorum, Lockett Collection, and the sale will be held in the later part of this year.

Mr. Lockett was the author of The Coinage of Offa (1920), and The Coins of Truro and Exeter (1936).

A list of all the auction catalogues named in the pedigrees given in the English series is inserted in this catalogue: it will not be issued with subsequent catalogues. Many of the coins in larger lots are also from well-known sales, and purchasers wishing additional information should apply to the cataloguers.

There are so many beautiful pieces and great rarities described in this catalogue that it is difficult to give a short list of the more desirable coins, but they will be found illustrated in the twenty-eight plates.

THE R. C. LOCKETT COLLECTION.

THE Sale of the first English section of the famous Lockett collection of coins took place on June 6th, 7th, 8th and 9th and realised the considerable amount of £40,849 15s. 0d.

This Sale contained the Ancient British, Romano-British, Early Anglo-Saxon, and a selection of the Saxon and Norman coins down to Edward II. The next English Sale will be held in 1956 and will contain coins from Edward III to Edward VI.

Prices realised were on the whole high, several records being created. This was in part due to the calibre of the coins, many being in splendid condition and having impressive pedigrees, and Mr. Lockett's name alone is certain to create excitement when his coins come on the market. Apart from these factors, and the generally healthy economic position of the country to-day, the high level of prices maintained does also reflect the keen and growing interest in the particular series covered by this part of the collection. Many of the coins sold have not been seen on the market for perhaps a generation or more, and in many cases the coins sold represented the only chance for collectors to fill particular gaps in their collections.

It is difficult to single out individual items, but mention should certainly be made of the three coins which fetched more than four figures. The first was the gold Aureus of Carausius struck in London which was sold for £1550, and the gold Aureus of Allectus also of the London Mint made £2000, the last being a record price for a British coin. Thirdly, the Henry III Gold Penny, the finest of the known specimens, sold for £1950, a record for a purely English coin. Both the last two coins were purchased by Spink & Son.

In the Saxon series many coins reached over three figures, the highest prices being £800 for the Agnus Dei Penny of Aethelred II, which was acquired for the National Collection at the British Museum, £600 for the Penny of Aethelberht II, £400 for the Penny of Eanred and £310 for the Wiglaf.

The later Saxon and Norman coins were notable for the wide variety of mints, including many of the highest rarity, and the Norman and Baronial coins in particular attracted much attention, reflecting the great popularity of this series to-day.

We purchased about 50 per cent of the coins in the sale, and although many of these were bought on commission on behalf of customers, we have added considerably to our stocks and we will be offering these coins, which include a number of rarities in the NUMISMATIC CIRCULAR later in the year. If in the meantime readers would like to write to us about any lots of interest from the sale we shall be pleased to hear from them.

The Lockett Collection, English, Part I, Priced Sale Catalogue will remain a work of reference as well as a guide to prices for very many years. For this reason, we have ordered a considerable stock, which will be available in about a month's time. Any collectors who are not on our regular list for Priced Catalogues may order these now. Price will be 25/– or 26/– post free. —D. G. L.

SEALS OF QUEEN ELIZABETH II.

BY Order in Council dated 24th June, 1952, the Deputy Master of the Royal Mint, who is ex officio Engraver of Her Majesty's Seals, was instructed to prepare a series of seals for the new Reign.

Work on the new coinage had to take priority over the work on these new seals, which have now, however, all been completed.

In recent months new seals have been engraved for the Secretaries of State, for the Chancellor of the Exchequer and for the Privy Council Office.

Seals for the Secretaries of State.

The earliest impression known of the series of seals which have their present counterparts in the Seals of the Secretaries of State is of the reign of Edward II (1307-1327).

The design of the seals of Queen Elizabeth II was prepared by Mr. W. M. Gardner (see Note 1 below), and consists of an arrangement of the Shield of the Royal Arms, crowned and surrounded by the Garter, together with the Royal Style and Titles in Latin.

These seals, which are single-sided, are used for impressing either paper or wax to authenticate a variety of documents.

Seal of the Chancellor of the Exchequer.

This seal is thought by most authorities to be the lineal descendant of a duplicate of the Great Seal of the Realm, which was kept by the Lord Chancellor in the Treasury, at any rate from the twelfth century onwards. The first Exchequer Seal of distinctive design dates from the reign of Edward I and bears on the obverse the mounted figure of that monarch, and on the reverse the Royal Arms.

The designs for the new seal were prepared by Mr. Gilbert Ledward, R.A. One side, which is a replica of the Great Seal of the Realm, shows an equestrian figure of Her Majesty, surrounded by an inscription of the Royal Style and Titles in Latin; the other is an arrangement of the Royal Arms with the legend SIGILLUM SCACCARII DOMINAE REGINAE.

The seal, which is impressed into wax, is nowadays in the custody of the Queen's Remembrancer for authenticating Warrants of Approval of the Election of the Sheriffs of the City of London and other documents.

Seal for the Privy Council Office.

This seal was first instituted in 1555.

The design of the Seal of Queen Elizabeth II was prepared by Mr. W. M. Gardner and consists of a combination of a rose, thistle and shamrock, and supported by a lion and a unicorn, together with the Royal Style and Titles in Latin.

The seal is single-sided and is used for authenticating Orders in Council and Orders of Council.

∵ Ex Hilton Price and Carlyon-Britton Collections.

This remarkable coin was formerly in the Hilton-Price cabinet and was disposed of during his life-time. According to H. A. Grueber's remarks on this piece, it was acquired by Hilton-Price many years ago together with "a large collection of Roman, Anglo-Saxon and mediaeval antiquities, including numerous Anglo-Saxon coins, all of which had been found in London". This type, from the fact that all the known specimens bear English mint-names, may be considered to be an entirely English one, and according to Grueber would seem to have been prompted, owing to its ultra religious nature, by one or other of the special events of a providential character that signalised Ethelred's stormy reign. (See Num. Chron. III, Vol. XIX, page 344) (illustrated from this coin).

"Found about the year 1824 by a workman engaged in removing the ruins of the old Church of St. Clements, Worcester. One Andrew Ball was present at the finding of the coin and purchased it for 5/-. He subsequently sold it to Thomas Manning. Manning resold it to Mr Allport, then the principle watchmaker in Birmingham and a collector of coins.

In 1837 Allport's collection, including the gold penny, was purchased by Mr. Thomas Henry Spurrier, solicitor, of Edgbaston, near Birmingham.

On Mr. Spurrier's death the penny, with other coins in his collection, passed to Maj.-General Edward Mortlake Studd, of Albrighton Hall, Co. Salop, who in 1820 had married Mary, daughter and heiress of T. H. Spurrier, she died in 1833, leaving a daughter who was a minor.

Maj.-General Studd married for a second time Emma Beatrice, daughter of Charlton Booth Bayley, by whom he had a son, Capt. Edward Fairfax Studd, born in 1835. General Studd died in 1877 and the gold penny was inherited by his son. Edward F. Studd married in 1877 Evelyn, daughter of Sir Arthur Chichester, Bart He died in 1942 and his widow, Mrs. Evelyn Studd, in Feb. 1949, aged 93.

Through the mediation of Messrs. A. H. Baldwin & Sons, acting on behalf of the executors of Mrs. Evelyn Studd, the gold penny was purchased by me in July 1947.—R.C.L."

A very full article was published on this remarkable coin by Mr. Derek Allen in the British Numismatic Journal, Third Series, Volume V.

This coin was presented to the British Museum by the late Mrs. R. C. Lockett, in memory of her husband.

It is published here so that the Anglo-Saxon portion of the collection is fully recorded.

PRICED CATALOGUES

of Coins and Medals

AFTER each sale these catalogues are issued with the prices realised printed in the margin opposite each lot, thus giving at a glance a reliable guide to values.

The final test of value must always be auction prices rather than the figures given in books of reference for changing times and fashions soon render the latter obsolete and misleading.

On the average we issue twelve Coin and Medal catalogues a year, some of which are usually of sales of important collections The priced catalogues are posted to subscribers as soon as ready, usually about a week after the date of sale and the subscription is . . . .
